

NEWS RELEASE

For immediate release

Quadrogen Power Systems wins the Best Presenting Company – Early Stage award at Canadian Financing Forum 2012

February 9, 2012, Vancouver, BC – Quadrogen Power Systems, Inc. received the “Best Presenting Company – Early Stage” award at the Canadian Financing Forum 2012 held in Vancouver, BC on February 2nd and 3rd, 2012. Nine companies from the Information Technology, Cleantech and Advanced Technology sectors were selected to participate in this category and the award was given to the presenting company receiving the most votes from the panel of investors.

“This award recognizes Quadrogen’s technology leadership and go-to market strategy with high growth potential in the bioenergy area,” said Marc Elrick, Executive Director, Canadian Financing Forum. This early stage award is presented to a high potential emerging company based on the following criteria: the problem being addressed by the company, innovative elements of the product, value proposition and benefits of the product, market entry strategy and penetration potential.

Alakh Prasad, Quadrogen’s President & CEO said “This is a recognition of what Quadrogen has achieved so far and its go forward plan. This award will accelerate Quadrogen’s growth.”

-♦-

About Quadrogen Power Systems, Inc.

Quadrogen, based in Vancouver, BC, designs, builds, and installs high performance gas clean-up solutions for the renewable energy sector. Its new Integrated Biogas Clean-Up System (IBCS) removes the contaminants found in biogas - a renewable fuel - produced by the anaerobic decomposition of organic matter such as sewage, manure, or green waste. Quadrogen also provides world-class engineering and design services, including detailed techno-economic feasibility studies for industrial and institutional customers.

For more information about Quadrogen, please visit: www.quadrogen.com

About the Canadian Financing Forum

The Canadian Financing Forum facilitates relationship building between entrepreneurs and leading venture capital and corporate investors, paving the way for company financings that ultimately sustain economic growth through new business creation and development.

The Canadian Financing Forum features presentations from the best and most promising Canadian technology companies, with approximately 30 technology companies competing for the attention of top tier investors from across Canada and the United States. Focusing on both Information Technology, Cleantech and Advanced Technology companies, the Canadian Financing Forum matches North American corporate and venture capital investors with entrepreneurs looking to build world-class technology companies.

For more information about the Canadian Financing Forum, please visit: www.financingforum.com